Foreword

This year we have chosen the theme "Spreading Our Wings" because indeed that is what our college has been doing. We have enlarged our campus facilities with the acquisition of two new buildings, we have increased our staff, and the name of N. C. E. has so spread throughout the world that our foreign student enrollment has risen continually.

In the following pages, we will try to present the life of National in the light of this theme. Each one of us, after studying and growing for four years, like a fledgling leaving the nest, will have an opportunity to "spread our wings" and, hopefully, fly a straight course through life.

Then said a Teacher Speak to us of Teaching.
And he said:
No man can reveal to you aught but that which already lies half asleep in the dawning of your knowledge.
If he is indeed wise he does not bid you enter the house of his wisdom, but rather leads you to the threshold of your own mind.

Kahlil Gibran

We dedicate this yearbook to:

Agnes L. Adams

Whose memory will remain with us . . . as delicate and inspiring as a Japanese etching and equally unforgettable.

We shall carry her example with us as we wing through life . . . for she has led us to the beginning of our flight.

Dear Students:

It is a pleasure for me to give a special salute at this time to our graduating seniors. The years have gone rapidly since you entered as freshmen, and many things have happened to each one of you as individuals as well as to the world in which we all live. Even though our world is filled with constant fears and obstacles, we hope that in our profession we are helping to build a better world--one where each individual knows the meaning of self respect and where he has the opportunity to fully develop his potentialities. I hope, too that each one of you has had the opportunity to develop as a person through your years at the College by gaining greater insights into your own personality. The growth and learning processes in human beings are continuous and do not stop when one finishes formal education. I hope that your experiences in college have strengthened your values and have given you greater insights into the problems of children as they "fit in" to an ever-changing society.

Your education has become a part of you, and what you do from now on will reflect that education and your Alma Mater. We hope, too, that you are all better individuals because of N.C.E. I am sure that N.C.E. is better because of you. You are entering a profession that involves individual lives and personalities. What we do with our responsibility may have its effect for generations to come. Let us remember that our profession is one of dedication. We must be proud to be members of it.

My best wishes to each one of you, and may you always remember that the "welcome mat" is out for you at N.C.E.

Sincerely yours,

K. Richard Johnson

In Memoriam
Clara Belle Baker
1885 - 1961

Clara Belle Baker's contributions to childhood education are recognized around the world. Her brilliant mind and great creative ability were evidenced in her publications and outstanding leadership in the profession. She was a woman who held to her strong convictions and will be remembered for her humility, her kindliness, and her subtle, unexpected humor. Those who knew her personally will recall her sensitive nature, which sometimes brought a quick, silent tear at the sight of beauty. Scholar, writer, speaker, teacher, administrator, "Miss Clara" was a great inspiration.

Recognition

Mary Louise Neumann Ruth Powers

In our present world of inter-communication, transportation, and universal complexity, our scope must become world-wide. Through books we can travel and become acquainted with people inhabiting even the remotest regions of our earth.

At N.C.E. two women stand ready to unlock the numerous treasures of our library and without them, many of us would never discover the first precious jewel.

Both Miss Numann and Miss Powers are dedicated persons who are always ready to serve. Miss Neumann's concern for humanity is evidenced by the special attention she gives to our foreign students, and Miss Powers' warm smile reflects her willingness to stimulate our interest in the innumerable facets of life that wait to be discovered on our library shelves.

We give our thanks and love to both of these women for the many years they have given N.C.E., leading us to the wonderful treasures of literature.

The Graduate School

The Graduate School at N.C.E. reached its tenth brithday on November 10, 1961. During this period of time three hundred sixty-seven persons have completed their work for the Master of Education degree. In the fall of 1961, 415 persons were enrolled in degree programs. The number of full-time graduate students is usually small since most of these people are teachers and housewives. Although not much in evidence during the daytime when undergraduates are on campus, this graduate enterprise is, nevertheless, a very significant part of the life of National College.

In order to provide outstanding instruction in the Graduate School, the regular faculty of the College is augmented by employment of specialists in various subject-matter fields. Some of these people serve also in research projects sponsored by the college, and as consultants and workshop directors in the summer session. This has the effect of enriching and deepening the intellectual climate provided for both graduate and undergraduate students.

Under the direction of the Dean of the Graduate School and a Graduate Council composed of faculty members, this graduate educational program is dedicated to the preparation of Master Teachers for the elementary schools. Courses of study are tailored to the needs of Bachelor of Arts graduates, of regular classroom teachers, remedial teachers, supervisory and administrative personnel, and teachers of the mentally retarded.

After wading through Orientation Week, the Class of '65 with Dr. English as sponsor, held a traditional class party at the Rec. House. The annual tree-trimming party in December helped to strengthen good relations between the freshmen and seniors. The delicious bake sale projects of this class helped finance the February Dance which proved to be highly successful. The freshmen broadened their scope by sponsoring Open House at Marienthal Hall, and their welome enthusiasm will surely permeate their remaining three years at N.C.E.

One of the most exciting and active organizations at N. C. E. is College Council. Student members are elected as representatives in Council by the student body. Included in this organization of forty-five members are faculty club advisers and faculty members-at-large, who are elected by the council. This year Council's various functions served not only to provide leadership in, and to promote disussion of, school issues, but also to stimulate undertanding of national and international affairs.

"The primary concern of American education today is . . . to cultivate in the largest number of our future citizens an appreciation both of the responsibilities and the benefits which come to them because they are American and free."

James Bryant Conant

Kappa Delta Pi

Theta Eta Chapter of Kappa Delta Pi is the national honor society dedicated to the development and preservation of high standards of future teachers. Members are selected from the junior and senior classes and from the graduate school, for their high scholastic ability and fine character. Initiation ceremonies are followed by the Freshman Tea. Under the leadership of Mr. Marquart, faculty sponsor, Kappa Delta Pi had a successful year.

Standing: M. Grib, J. Miller, M. Schrottky, B. Ohmstead, T. Sheehan

Ambassadors

The spreading smile of an ambassador is a welcome greeting to any visitor at our College. Ambassadors are the official hostesses of our school who are kept busy with such things as the Prospective and New Student teas, and guiding interested persons around our campus. This year they spread their friendliness to high school panel discussions. Mr. Grafman is the faculty sponsor of this charming group.

A friendly smile, a helping hand,
The Ambassadors for ever stand
To greet the folks who come to see
The "goings on" at N.C.E.

National

The 1961-'62 yearbook staff has attempted to portray the growth and spreading influence of N.C.E. through pictures and copy. It is an exciting story and we of the National staff hope you will catch some of the excitement and joy as you go through the book that we experienced in compiling it for you. If, each time you look through the book, some memories of your college days are awakened, then we have fulfilled our job--to bring you a lasting record of N.C.E. as We Spread Our Wings.

Chaff

The spreading influence of Chaff, the college newspaper, keeps the student body and faculty informed and entertained. It is also a valuable channel through which students can express themselves. Mrs. Zinn helps the staff to prepare the eagerly anticipated editions.

Dorm Association

Dorm Association, a governing body, helped plan many exciting activities for the girls residing at Marienthal Hall. These activities included the Big-Little Sister Dinner, Hoot Nanny, and Christmas festivities. All affairs were carried on under the capable guidance of the housemothers, Mrs. Curtis and Mrs. Davlin.

Town Association

Our commuting students at National are like the branching roots of a tree as they go forth from the college to their nearby communities. Town Association, sponsored by Miss Springstun, is the organization which unites them. Their activities this year included a Big-Little Sister program, Hoot Nanny night, the Christmas dinner and the annual family dinner in the spring. These students help to spread the spirit of National over the surrounding areas.

Choir

This year Choir flitted from one performance to another, always with a successful showing. Traditional performances were Anahl and the Night Visitors, and the Messiah. Other activities included the ACE convention, Ceremony of Carols, Great Lakes, St. Francis Hospital, Presbyterian Church and the Bach performance at the Festival of Arts. This organization gave much pleasure to everyone, for "music is food for the soul."

M.E.N.C.

Music Educators' National Conference invited the whole student body to participate in its monthly outings, so that all might grow in musical knowledge and appreciation. These outings included: "Porgy and Bess", a puppet-musical, the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, an opera, the Fine Arts Quartet concert, the "Sound of Music" and the Boston Pops Orchestra. This fun was guided by the faculty sponsor, Miss Hunter.

Drama Club

With the aid of Dr. Kidder and Mrs. Lindman, Drama club members flitted through a year of activities which included Saturday workshops and monthly meetings that brought guests to our school from other campuses. The annual Children's Play and the March Play utilized the efforts and cooperation of much of our student body, resulting in success.

Dance Group

Under the sponsorship of Mrs. Duffy and the direction of the internationally known Sybil Shearer, Dance Group floated through all the arts at N.C.E. this year. We saw them with the Choir in Amahl and the Night Visitors, and the Ceremony of the Carols; some members helped Drama Club with the Children's Play, and their grace was welcomed in our assemblies. They even recorded their efforts on film with fine success.

Dancing is the loftiest, the most moving, the most beautiful of the arts . . . it is life itself.

A.C.E., a professional organization, is a student chapter of the Association for Childhood Education International and the Illinois Association for Childhood Education. This year, National was host to the A.C.E. state conference. Some other activities were a teacher interview, a puppet show, the Christmas workshop, a speaker from a welfare agency, a tape recording about the purpose of kindergartens, and two assemblies concerning education here and abroad. Miss Adams is the stimulating sponsor of this club.

In keeping with our school's growth, Human Relation's Club expanded its horizons to religion, politics, and social problems. Included in its sphere were N.C.C.J. conferences, a brotherhood assembly, prejudice day, and speakers such as Rev. Mr. Bond. President Phyllis Chambers and Mrs. Moore, faculty sponsor, worked with everyone to help the club zoom to new heights.

Athletic Club

To be able to function successfully, one must be in good health. Under the direction of Mr. Hardy, Athletic Club helps keep National girls physically fit. The favored sports are volleyball, badminton, basketball, archery, tennis and baseball. There was competition between classes, with the faculty, and with other colleges. Some of the outside tournaments were volleyball, badminton and tennis contests.

THANKSGIVING PROCESSIONAL

It is traditional that each year at the Thanksgiving Assembly the student body brings gifts of food, lotion, crayons, etc. to be given to the Mary Crane Nursery. These items are used by the children whose parents have no money for such "luxuries". It was in 1925 that Jane Adams and Edna Dean Baker established Mary Crane, and the spirit of giving is carried on in their memory.

CHRISTMAS TRADITIONS

Our Christmas traditions go back to 1929. The dorm caroling and storytelling stem from the time when National was located on the South Side of Chicago. The girls from Mrs. Clarke's house went to the other houses and sang in the halls. Miss Baker spent the night in the dorm and when the halls awakened, the girls gathered around as she told a Christmas story. Each year the girls at Marienthal Hall carry on these meaningful traditions.

Tis the season to be jolly

Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges

Who's Who is a tradition at N.C.E. which began about 1944. The national publication gives National a quota of members based on college enrollment. The students are then chosen by a committee of three prominent seniors, the senior class sponsor and the dean of students. The nominating committee selects students on the basis of scholarship, participation and leadership in academic and extracurricular activities, citizenship and service to the school, and promise of future success and usefulness. The selections are then approved by the college president.

The students thus selected will appear in next summer's publication of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

Amahl and The Night Visitors

Amahl and the Night Visitors, which is performed annually by the college choir, is a fairly recent tradition on our campus. Gian-Carlo Menotti's opera tells the story of Amahl, a lame peasant boy who encounters the three kings who are following the star of the East. When the boy learns that they all have gifts to present to the child they are seeking, Amahl selflessly volunteers his most prized possession--his crutch. Because of his generousity, he is miraculously cured of his lameness and accompanies the three kings in their search for the small child.

"I was a shepherd, I had a flock of sheep"

"Yes I know a child the color of wheat, the color of dawn..."

"Now shall we dance for them."

"I walk...Mother...I walk."

DAISY CHAIN

Since its beginning in 1923, white-clad sophomores have woven chains of daisies, through which the seniors march as they take part in commencement ceremonies. Following the exercises, a song of farewell, written by the sophomores, is sung to the graduates, who in turn sing a reply. This lovely tradition is long remembered by the participants from both classes.

You and your court will reign for a night
Of music and stars and sheer delight.
And tho it's soon over and graduation
draws near,
You'll remain queen in our hearts for many a year.

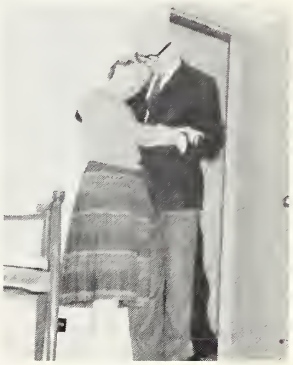
Could Have Danced All Night



Once more - with feeling!

Ah, the Bard of Avon

Is Everybody Happy?

More Food?

Oh Christmas Tree!

Come Gather Round

Campaigns start again

Where did this come from?

One way to be on top

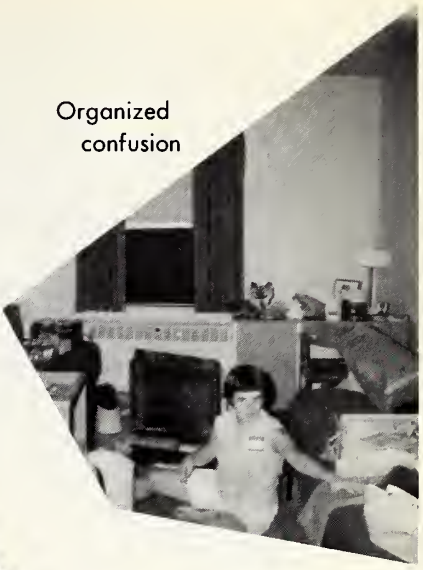
Human Relations?

Oh, for Me???

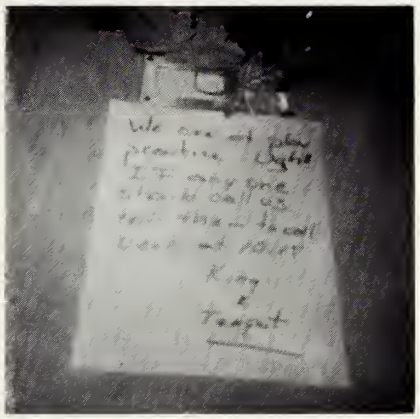
Miss Adams, Can You Remember 1959?

Mrs. G.'s pride and joy

Organized confusion



Did you say New Jersey?



King and Teapot???

Never too early to start

What's in the box?

It has to come from the heart . . .

Leftover

Did you find those in there?

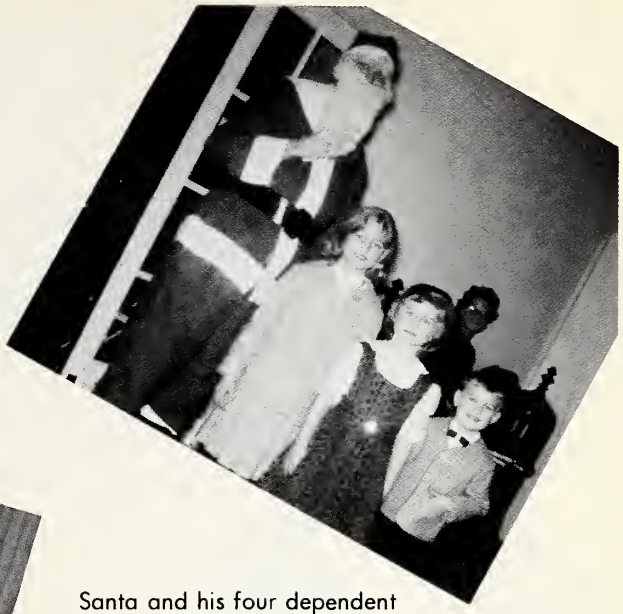
"Santa, I would like . . ."

Could this be Kiddy Lit?

California sunshine



Santa and his four dependent Clauses...

A fair exchange

I wasn't ready!!!

Oh, those college days...

Sparkle

Sophs treat seniors

T.A. sing along

"I think the idea is to smile,
Mr. M."

Ricky Tricky Dick and Co.

Dotty and "her" boys

Oh, you're kidding!!

Acknowledgements

Our sincere thanks and appreciation go to these people who have helped to make this yearbook a reality:

Mrs. Pauline Galvarro, Sponsor and advisor, whose patience and guidance have been instrumental in the production of this yearbook;

Mr. Joseph Vogel, of Artmaster Yearbook Company, who has helped us through the maze of technical details;

Mr. Anthony Communale, of Marshall Photographers Inc., whose cooperation and fine end results have contributed so much to our yearbook;

The faculty and students of the college, whose interest and help have provided support for your yearbook.
